Von Hindenburg's Message.

A message sent by Field Marshal von Hindenburg to Gen. Groener, head of the German munitions department, with reference to strikes in industrial communities has been received here by wireless from Berlin. Field Marshal von Hindenburg says he recognizes that the population has been hit hard by the regulation of the bread ration, but that undoubtedly the increase in meat and the regular delivery of potatoes will compensate therefor. While he is convinced that the authorities will see to the proper distribution of foodstuffs, the field marshal said:

"I am, therefore, quite unable to see

Strikes Weaken Defense.

"Every strike, however small, may be the means of an unjustifiable weak ening of our defensive force and is an inexcusable crime against the fighting forces, especially the men in the trenches, who bleed in consequence."

A Reuter dispatch from Amsterdam says that von Hindenburg concluded his message by asking Gen. Groener to see that all means are employed to coninue the production and dispatch of arms and ammunitions, and also to have the necessary explanation given the armament workers to that end which "in my opinion appears the prin-cipal condition for attaining our great aim."

Revolutionary Demands.

AMSTERDAM, via London, April 21 .-Resolutions of a most revolutionary character were presented by the lead-ers of the Berlin strikers at a mass meeting of the workers, according to the Dusseldorfer General Anzeiger. Peace without annexations and the abolition of compulsory service were two of the striking features of these resolutions which, the paper says, were The resolutions demanded that the

The resolutions demanded that the government declare its immediate readiness for peace on the basis of a renunciation of all intention of annexations. They further demanded the liberation of all political prisoners, the institution of complete political freedom and a general, secret, equal and direct franchise throughout the empire.

Chancellor Refuses Discussion.

Chancellor von Bethmann Hollweg, says the Berlin Lokal Anzeiger, having declined to discuss the situation with a deputation headed by Hugo Haase, president of the central executive commit of the new independent socialist den cratic party, 20,000 workers in four f. tories in greater Berlin decided to ci tinue their strike.

COPENHAGEN, April 21.—According to the Berlin Vorwaerts, the strike continues everywhere in Berlin, and Chancellor von Bethmann Hollweg's reply to a deputation of workers from the Deutsche Waffen and Munitions Fabrik of Berlin was a declination to assume the task of arbitrator.

Magdeburg is the capital of the Prussian province of Saxony, and one of the strongest fortresses in the German empire. It is seventy-six miles from Berlin, and is the seat of immense steel works and machine shops forming part of the greater Krupp works. The city had a population in 1990 of 223,663.

Opponents of Conscription

Submit Their Arguments Before Military Committee

Pacifists, conscientious objectors and epresentatives of unorganized workers also appeared today before the Sente military affairs committee. James Eads How of St. Louis, known as the "millionaire hobo," speaking for unorganized workers, said he believed if guns were put in their hands he feared Labor said labor stands solidly against conscription.

Mr. Hamilton put in the Record a statement from Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, saying that organization has always been and is still opposed to compulsion and that the volunteer system should be tried first in raising an army.

Argument of the Minority.

The minority report, embodying the arguments in favor of the administraion's selective draft measure, puts for ward in brief form two major ideas. One is that conscription had to be resorted to in the civil war, and the other is that England went through a series of terrible blunders in endeavoring to raise a proper army by deavoring to raise a proper army by the volunteer system.

The report contains a copy of the letter from Secretary Baker to Representative Kahn, who will take up the administration's fight on the House floor, and also contains an excerpt from the testimony before the committee of Capt. Benson of the Somerset Yeomanry, an English regiment Capt. Benson details some of the mistakes the United States should avoid, as statement being based on his experiences in English recruiting.

The report contains the following:

"The bill as originally forwarded to the chairman of the committee on military affairs was drafted in the War Department and has the approval of the commander-in-chief of the army, his civilian representative, the Secretary of War and the officers of the general staff and the staff corps. The military officers are the experts of the government in military matters. It is to them the nation will look for the organization and conduct in the field of our armies in the present war. The study of military plans and problems constitutes their life work. On the other hand, the members of the committee on military affairs are laymen. They are not military men. mittee on military affairs are laymen. They are not military men.

Time for Expert Leadership. "And yet the majority of the comriews on the raising of the proper duct of the war above the views of the trained military experts of the government. In this great crisis we deem it to be our patriotic duty in this matter of increasing temporarily the military establishment of the United States to follow the counsel of the commander-in-chief of our army and his expert advisers. We desire to follow the plan which they have laid down for us in this matter rather than follow any plan which we ourselves might devise.

"The experience of the north and of the south with the volunteer system during the civil war should recur to us with appealing conviction at this time. Both sides had to resort to canscription before the war and the north in its second year. When volunteering did not bring recruits as rapidly as was desired, the laws putting the draft into operation were enacted. The conscription before the war and the north in its second year. #### War Relief Committee.

A standing committee on war relie to serve during the war, to act in conert with the council for national de fense, was created by the congress o the National Society of the D. A. R., today, as expression of its desire to give aid of service and resources to the nation in the present war crisis. The privileges of naming the personnel rests in the president general-elect, Mrs. George Thacher Guernsey. As a method of co-operation for all the D. A. R. over the country the congress indorsed recommendations:

D. A. R. over the country the congress indorsed recommendations:

That each state regent shall ask each chapter regent to appoint a representative, these members to form a standing committee of the state to elect their chairman and co-operate with the national standing committee on war relief.

That through this co-operation the representatives of each chapter can carry to her associate definite plans of work whereby each chapter may select its own definite lines from lines authorized by our national standing committee.

That the chapters in each state create a fund in whatever way may seem advisable, that in time of need may be turned over to the national society or used by themselves in any emergency which may arise.

The special committee on national service, which reported these recommendations also suggested that it be temporarily continued to keep in touch with the council of national defense until the permanent members may be chosen by the president general-elect. The congress complied with this suggestion.
